Student Administration

If you manage admissions, financial aid, records, accounts, or any of the other key student services, you face new challenges every day. The quality of service you deliver depends on your performing many roles: meeting ever-changing student needs, complying with government regulations, satisfying the reporting requirements of your own institution, and – ultimately – helping your school attract, retain, and support the best students.

Take New Control of Admissions Processing

In building a well-qualified student body, the admissions process is the critical stage. Edulytics does more than simplify and manage the flow of admissions data; it helps you to identify and select the very best candidates. With all relevant applicant information at hand, you can make sound decisions quickly. Edulytics provides comprehensive tools for document tracking, applicant correspondence, data analysis, and decision support.

Manage Financial Aid Resources More Effectively

Financial aid departments are under increasing pressure to manage spending more efficiently. We designed Edulytics to help you do just that by streamlining the financial aid process and reducing your paperwork burden. Working with 3rd party vendors you can automate the need-analysis function and use Salesforce.com for award notification. Edulytics incorporates features that make it easier to respond to changing government regulations. Moreover, you get flexible support for other vital student aid functions, such as fund management, reporting and research.

Streamline Management of Complex Student Records

The Academic Records component cuts through the complications of managing student records and gives you comprehensive access to all students systems. You don't waste time –your own, your staff's, or your student's –compiling information from multiple sources.

And Edulytics flexible support for web registration, course maintenance, and class scheduling lets you respond quickly to changing circumstances.

The Answers You Need Are Easy to Get

Edulytics includes a set of advanced reporting tools that make it simple for you and your staff to develop reports without help from technical specialists. You can make solid decisions without delay and with full confidence that they're based on accurate, up-to-the-minute information.
